Are Pilgrimages important to all religions?

Although going on a pilgrimage is important to many different religions, this is not true with every religion. Some Sikhs go on pilgrimages but many do not as it is not seen as a compulsory part of Sikhism.

Buddhist Pilgrimages 	Christian Pilgrimages 	Hindu Pilgrimages 	Muslim Pilgrimages 	Jewish Pilgrimages 	Sikhism and Pilgrimages
Pilgrimages are very important in Buddhism. The most important Buddhist pilgrimage sites are called the 'Eight Great Places'. They are: Rajgir, Bodh Gaya, Sarnath, Vaishali, Sankassa, Kusinara, Shravasti and Lumbini. Four of these are believed to be where miracles took place. 	There are different views on pilgrimage in Christianity. For some Christians, going on pilgrimage is important, whereas others do not believe it is that important. Christians who go on pilgrimages visit places that are in the New Testament in the Bible, or are linked with saints or miracles. Pilgrimages include Lourdes in France and Bethlehem. 	Pilgrimage is an important part of Hinduism. Hindus go on pilgrimages to several places, including temples and mountains. Once every 12 years, millions of people share in ritual bathing at the Kumbh Mela festival. This is held where the waters of the Ganges and Yamuna rivers combine. The River Ganges is the holiest river for Hindus. 	In Islam pilgrimage is important. All three types of Muslims (Sunni, Shia and Sufi) take pilgrimages. Each group of Muslims has its own pilgrimages but they all believe in a special pilgrimage called Hajj. All Muslims try to go once in their life, as this is the fifth pillar of Islam. For Hajj, Muslims travel across the world to visit Mecca. 	In the past, it used to be the duty for all followers of Judaism to pilgrimage to Jerusalem three times a year during specific festivals. It is no longer a duty, but Jews still go on pilgrimage to Jerusalem as it is their holiest city. Jews go to pilgrimage at the Western Wall (or Wailing Wall) as it is the last site of a destroyed Jewish temple. Jews pray at the wall and write messages to God. 	Pilgrimage is not compulsory for Sikhs so many choose not to go and spend the money they could have spent on a pilgrimage to help others. Sikh gurus, such as Guru Nanak, have said that spiritual wisdom and "God's name is the real pilgrimage place". If Sikhs do choose to go on a pilgrimage, they visit the 'Golden Temple' in India. It is the most famous place of worship for Sikhs.
